Relational Revolution – Our culture has been progressively suffering under the dehumanizing ripple effects of the European Enlightenment. Our “digital” society has made this clearer to people than ever – we are starving for a more personal touch. It is time for a wide-spread quiet, but gently forceful, cultural pushback to arise!

Dr. Jim Wilder

Transformation: From a Voluntarist to an Attachment Model – In church cultures, the human will has been touted as the key to character change and becoming like Christ. Yet, neuroscience and a better theology both reveal that it is actually quite weak.

Transformation: The Attachment Model Challenge – Becoming more aware and alert to the state and quality of our attachment to God and people will empower us to make more substantial and sustainable progress in becoming like Jesus.

Chris Coursey

Encountering Enemy Mode in Myself and Others – One great way to cultivate fear and crush joy in our communities occurs when we and others shift into the brain state Dr. Wilder calls “enemy mode.” Once enemy mode emerges, it is all-too easy to amplify pain and problems and nearly impossible to spread joy and express our love. Learn key relational skills to better navigate times others feel like enemies.

Kitty Wilder

Transformation: Stories from the Field – New ideas and practices for growing deeper heshed attachment relationships in our church communities. Real-life recent accounts of how engaging in practical brain skill exercises have helped Christ-followers to love God and others more deeply and rise above our narcissistic tendencies.

Terri Sullivant

Becoming Fully Alive in Christ: The Graceful Dance of Relational Maturity – What does it look like for a woman to have Jesus Christ fully formed within her feminine nature and how is this outwardly expressed?
